FLOYD of the JUNGLE

(C) 1982 by Sid Meier

INTRODUCTION

Deep in the sweltering jungle young Floyd dashes through the lush underbrush. His eyes dart from side to side looking for a juicy bird to spice up the evening meal. Suddenly, a far away cry pierces the jungle stillness; lovely Janice is calling. Has she been kidnapped? Is she in danger? Is it dinner time? Floyd quickly turns to retrace his path through the deepening dusk.

Rushing down the jungle trails Floyd comes upon a poisonous snake barring his path. Floyd jumps (press the trigger) over the slimy reptile. At the end of the trail, he leaps to grab a stout jungle vine and climbs until he emerges into the clearing beyond. The clearing is filled with wild jungle animals. He quickly grabs a nearly bird (1 point). Floyd jumps onto the back of a passing alligator and rides him towards the nearby river. Floyd knows he must avoid the alligator's snapping jaws and the tiger's sharp teeth. Recent rains have turned the river into a swiftly flowing torrent, Floyd wisely waits for a dugout canoe to pass by and leaps in. As his canoe reaches a small midstream island, Floyd leaps out and jumps to the far bank. But a vicious pigmy warrior hidden in the bushes flings a poisoned dart at our hero. Floyd jumps quickly to avoid the deadly missile. Leaping towards the pigmy. Floyd flattens him with a solid punch on the jaw (2 points). Nearing home, he leaps onto the back of a nearby elephant and then grabs a high vine. Below him a line of hungry monkeys stare at Floyd's appetizing toes. But Floyd is already scrambling up the vine and on his way to reunite himself with the lovely Janice...

The object if the game is to become the first player to earn the number of points selected at the start of the game. One point is awarded for each bird taken, two points are awarded for each pigmy punched out, four points are awarded for reaching Janice first - with additional points for reaching Janice in under 60 seconds or with a handicap. At the end of each screen, the current standings will be displayed along with the number of birds and pigmies scored during the previous screen. There are five different screens. In single player games, a score will be calculated based upon total points and total elapsed time.

Floyd may run left or right and climb up or down the vines - use the joystick to control Floyd's motion. To make Floyd leap, press the trigger. To make Floyd punch a pigmy, he must first jump in the direction you want him to punch. When he lands, hold the trigger down again and Floyd will punch. Floyd must avoid the snakes, monkeys, pigmies, alligator jaws, tiger teeth, water, pigmy darts, and elephant feet. If he encounters any of these hazards he will have to start over from the bottom of the screen.
